Global Logistics & Emergency Response Powered by AI · Mission-Focused. Human-Centered.

Child and Family Services Specialist

On call | Deploy anywhere in the United States

ResponseAI is seeking experienced Child and Family Services Specialists to support child and family assessments, vulnerable minors, child-welfare coordination, and child supervision oversight at emergency sites.

Education: Bachelor's degree in Social Work, Child Development, Psychology, Human Services, Early Childhood Education, or a related field.

Experience: 3+ years providing child welfare, family services, child protective services, or emergency child services.

Responsibilities & Required Skills

- Conduct child safety, protection, and family needs assessments during emergency or humanitarian response; balance child safety, family unity, and the best interests of the child.
- Support family reunification involving children, including unaccompanied, separated, or otherwise vulnerable minors.
- Identify safeguarding concerns and indicators of abuse, neglect, exploitation, or human trafficking; coordinate appropriate protective interventions.
- Integrate child and family services with case management, behavioral health, transportation, reception, access and functional needs, and other support functions.
- Collaborate with federal, state, tribal, territorial, local, nonprofit, and community-based child welfare and family service organizations.
- Apply knowledge of child welfare systems, mandatory reporting, family-centered practice, and trauma-informed approaches; coordinate services for complex medical, behavioral health, developmental, educational, or access and functional needs.
- Resolve operational issues to maintain care and protection; support planning, situational reporting, documentation, and quality assurance.
- Demonstrate strong analytical, communication, conflict resolution, and organizational skills; use case management systems or learn Government-designated systems within 30 days.
- Prepare Section 508-compliant reports, briefings, and operational documentation; demonstrate proficiency in Microsoft Word, Excel, PowerPoint, Outlook, and Teams.
